
The Search Is On for 2009 AAF Inductees

How would you like to be a member of a class that includes top florists who've made their mark on the industry and in their communities?

SAF is looking to enroll the new American Academy of Floriculture (AAF) class of honorees for 2009. Nomination forms are available now online at www.safnow.org/awards. Honorees will be officially inducted during the Industry Awards Dinner at SAF Phoenix 2009, the association's 125th annual convention in Phoenix, Sept. 23-26.

Since 1965, AAF has sought to encourage, measure and recognize professionals — retailers, wholesalers, growers, educators, scientists, designers and allied business people — who have committed their time and energy to the floral industry and their local communities.

You also can throw someone's hat into the race by nominating them for the prestigious designation or for any of the SAF awards (President's, Paul Ecke, Jr., Alex Laurie and Tommy Bright awards or PFCI induction.)

DEADLINE ALERT! Say thanks to deserving colleagues or give yourself some credit by nominating an SAF award candidate by Jan. 30. Get award and nomination details here.
